A New York man got sixteen months imprisonment for packing a gun. In some respects Gotham is superior to mining camps.

"All is lost save honor," says Governor Hagerman of New Mexico, and now the Republican gangsters who had him ousted are trying to take that away from him.

It is reported that the recent tornado in Louisiana cured a number of insane persons. The report does not, however, state whether or not the persons cured figured in the list of fatalities.

The New York militia has balked at the suggested plan of having joint drills and sham battles at the encampment this summer. The New York militia men want it distinctly understood that they aren't even play soldiers.

Governor Cummins of Iowa says that Roosevelt must reconsider his determination not to accept the presidential nomination, which leads one to believe that Ex-Secretary Shaw is not the only Iowan who has presidential aspirations.

After all Christmas camp does not seem to be as black as painted. According to the residents of that prosperous Gila county camp the people there are living up to the appropriate motto of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Some of those who attended the opening session of the peace congress developed into pretty good scrappers. Peace congresses are all right as long as the delegates do not get into too much trouble over conflicting views as to the best way of securing permanent peace.

The Arizona rangers in Cochise county couldn't find a chance to mix up in the Bisbee strike, so they busted up a steer tying contest, just because it happened to be contrary to the law. It looks as though the knights of the rope would have to follow the knights of the green cloth to Nevada in order to keep proficient in their calling.

MR. BRYAN'S NEW PAD

Finding that the Democratic party is not ready to take up his policy for the government ownership of railroads, even "ultimately," Mr. Bryan has evidently been casting about for a new burning issue. He has hit upon the "initiative and referendum"—the frill upon republican government imported from Switzerland by some of our socialists. Of this Mr. Bryan said in his Brooklyn speech:

"You may differ with me on many things in reference to party doctrines, but if you do not believe in the capacity of the people to govern themselves, which is what the initiative and referendum mean, I will drive you out of the Democratic party."

Is not this a fine and hopeful spirit in which to approach the presidential campaign of next year? Think of driving out of the Democratic party all who do not accept the initiative and referendum! Of all the ways so far suggested this year of keeping the party small, this would perhaps be the most effectual. The great majority of the people do not understand it, and many of those who have studied and observed it do not regard it as a workable principle here. However adaptable it may be to cities or even to states—and the few experiments made in this country are by no means conclusive as to its usefulness—it is entirely impracticable for a nation of 80,000,000 people, living in forty-five states. The "town meeting" or mass meeting system of government may be capable of considerable expansion, but it cannot be stretched to cover the continent.

Mr. Bryan implies that there cannot be real republican government, demonstrating "the capacity of the people to govern themselves," without this new-fangled appendix. Who governed this country and what kind of a government was it, for the hundred years or more before the "initiative and referendum" were heard of here? Is not a representative government democratic?

As an organizer of defeat and a godsend to the Republican party, the "peerless leader" has no equal.

HAGERMAN WILL MAKE SENSATION

Deposed Governor of New Mexico Promises to Have Something Doing Soon—His Attorney General Defends Him in Interview at Las Vegas.

A dispatch dated at Kansas City says: Governor Herbert J. Hagerman of New Mexico, whose resignation as governor has been requested by President Roosevelt as the result of charges filed by Bull Andrews, Major W. H. H. Llewellyn and others, departed for New Mexico, reaching here from St. Louis after a stay of three days in the latter city. As the governor was leaving he said he believed that his resignation had been requested as the result of enmity incurred through his efforts to overthrow a corrupt ring of grafters in New Mexico who have been making a violent fight against him as the result of his efforts in this direction. Governor Hagerman stated that he has not yet officially resigned, but that he would send his resignation to President Roosevelt as soon as he reaches Albuquerque. The governor said further that upon his resignation he would make exposures that he believed would create considerable of a sensation.

In an interview given out at Las Vegas and published in the Optic, Attorney General W. C. Reid, commenting upon the forced resignation of Governor H. J. Hagerman, says:

"Being acquainted with Governor Hagerman as I am, I know his every motive was and is right and good. I believe he has accomplished more in awakening the public conscience in New Mexico in the direction of better government, in the year and a half that he has been governor, than was done in any ten years preceding him. Of course, everyone knows that he could have gotten along in the old way of doing things, and have had a long and peaceful administration, but to have done so would be to yield up every principle of decency and good government which he entertained when he took office, and, looking back over it all now, I feel that I know Governor Hagerman feels the same, that it is better to have done as he did and lost the office than to have done differently and retained it. I know that he has no regrets for his actions and only regrets that this president has allowed himself to be imposed upon by such men as have been fighting him. The good work that Governor Hagerman has inaugurated will not end. I believe the decent people of the territory will keep it up and that this latest move will only arouse them to the seriousness of the fight that they must make. I believe the people should and will show Governor Curry that they stand for the things Governor Hagerman was working for and that he will join with them."

"We cannot afford to be faint hearted in this fight, which, in my judgment, has only just well begun. If the president only knew the real conditions here, he would be with us heart and soul, and it is the duty of each citizen who stands for the abolition of graft, and who stands for good government, to let the president know the facts here and know whether the people of the territory were standing back of Governor Hagerman. I know personally that in the past few days letters and telegrams have been going to the president in large numbers from all parts of the territory protesting against the acceptance of Governor Hagerman's resignation."

"As to my own position it is well known that my resignation had been agreed upon for a considerable time before such a thing as a change in the executive office was thought of. I shall present my resignation to Governor Curry as soon as he assumes the office or as soon thereafter as it is convenient for him to consider it and of course I shall do all I can to assist him in carrying out the good work which has been so well begun."

The World's Funniest Joke

Looked in the breast of Silver Simpson of Minneapolis is the funniest joke of the season. But while the world frets to know it and Simpson is just dying to tell it, the owner of the exuberant tid-bit is restrained by the knowledge that if he does tell it he probably will never be able to tell another. For Mr. Simpson almost died today in his efforts to let the world in on the joke. He came all the way over to St. Paul to see a friend on Wabash street. But when he started to tell it he laughed so hard that he dislocated his jaw. He was taken to police headquarters, where the ambulance surgeons set his jaw and then expressed curiosity regarding the joke that could do such awful things to a man. Simpson started to tell the joke and laughed and—pop went the jaw again. This time the surgeons bound his face so tightly that he can only giggle, but he has said in writing that he fears to try a fourth time to tell the joke because it's good enough to break the bandages.—St. Paul Dispatch to Kansas City Times.

Man Does a Woman's Work
Major Robert Brewster Chappell is the government storekeeper in a bonded warehouse near Clark and Illinois streets. His only duty is to receipt for packages that are stacked up in the big room and basement and it admits of considerable waiting time. He conceived the idea of knitting socks, mittens and wristlets. His mother, more than fifty years ago, had taught him how to use the needles. In the corner of the big room, in the light of a great window, there is a small space, as the boxes of filled bottles leave him scarcely enough room in which to turn around. In this space, beside a radiator, he does his knitting. He has had the place for four years and has been knitting most of that time.—Chicago News.

SCHWAB ENTERS CANANEA FIELD

West Cananea Property Is Taken Over by New Company of Which Steel Magnate Is the Head—Places Stamp of Approval on Well Knocked District

Charles M. Schwab has entered the Cananea field. A company to be controlled by him and upon whose board of directors he is represented by his personal mining expert, Donald B. Gillies of Tonopah, has been organized to take over and develop properties in Sonora. The nucleus of the company will be the West Cananea and San Bernardino properties, says the El Paso Herald.

The West Cananea is situated about seven miles from Cananea, on the western spur of the Cananea mountains. The property is 600 meters from the Greene-Cananea and consists of 156 pertenencias. The property has been very rapidly developed since the work was started in January. On the properties is an open cut about 550 feet in size, from which 8 per cent ore is being shipped to the Cananea smelter.

A local mining engineer who is familiar with the property stated to a Herald man this morning:

"The most gratifying thing in connection with the advent of Schwab into the Cananea field and the purchase of the West Cananea is the placing of the stamp of approval upon a district which has labored under considerable prejudice. The western side of the mountains near Cananea has been generally discredited by mining engineers. The favorable report made by Tomlinson and Norton not long ago caused considerable surprise, these engineers stating that they considered the west side of the mountains to be as rich as any other section in the camp. Now that the Schwab engineers, after a thorough examination, have reported favorably, all prejudice should be removed."

The name of the new company will be the Cananea Western, capitalized at $3,000,000, shares $1 par. The holders of the West Cananea will exchange their stock share for share for the stock of the new company.

Found Five Persons in a Bed

What is believed to be the most crowded dwelling house in New York city was discovered in Brooklyn yesterday by a policeman. It is a two-story and basement structure in Second avenue, near Twelfth street, and the conditions which were found there astonished the authorities.

Patrolman Carroll, who stumbled across the human heap, was looking for a man named Senda, charged with assault. He reached the house early in the morning, when the inmates were asleep. Most of the tenants were Poles. Carroll says he found an average of four beds in a room, and that from four to five people were accustomed to sleeping in each bed. He says he counted 260 persons in the house, and believes that there were others tucked into out-of-the-way corners who escaped his notice.—New York Times.
